

The wisconsin no-call list has worked extremely well. The number of calls before going on the list was averaging 5 an evening. Leave well enough alone. If those who want to telemarket had gotten so out of hand the state would not have been called upon by the voters to create the system. Let them use mail or other means of contacting us.